For Healthy Digestion

How wonderful it feels to have a comfortable, light sensation in the stomach – especially after a meal. Yet optimal digestion is a finely tuned process that relies on a precise sequence of complex, energy-demanding physiological steps, all highly sensitive to even the smallest disturbances.

A fascinating aspect of this process is the dynamic rhythm of acid and base balance throughout the digestive tract. The mouth is alkaline, the stomach highly acidic, the small intestine alkaline again, and the large intestine slightly acidic. This wave-like alternation is essential for that “good feeling” and for maintaining healthy digestion.

Unfortunately, as we age, these natural waves begin to flatten – the acid-base contrasts fade, and the intestinal environment becomes increasingly neutral, much like plain water.

StomachDigest restores the essential acidity needed for optimal digestion in the stomach. To naturally rebalance and neutralize this acidity afterward, we recommend combining it with BasenBalance.
